ABOUT USF EDUCATION ABROAD

USF Education Abroad Mission Statement

The mission of the USF Education Abroad Office is to provide the USF community with high quality educational experiences abroad. Our goal is to create programs with a strong comparative element that emphasizes sustained engagement with foreign academics and professionals, community members and fellow students.

The Education Abroad Office promotes global competency by supporting and creating high-impact, innovative, and accessible international experiences for students that:

- Expand their understanding of the world around them;
- Provide a comparative context for their US studies resulting in a deeper understanding and appreciation of these subjects;
- Prepare them for an increasingly international workplace; and
- Create more thoughtful and understanding citizens of the world

As a part of the GloBull Ambassador's program, students have the opportunity to share experiences and knowledge with other students who are thinking about studying abroad, or those who have already decided and are in the process of preparing for their study. In addition to quality conversations about overseas destinations and issues, students will get to experience the study abroad industry from the advisor's standpoint, network within the study abroad community, and add a great experience to your résumé!

GLOBAL CITIZENS PROJECT

Calling all USF undergraduate students!

Do you want to study abroad? Do you enjoy community service? Do you want to do undergraduate research? Are you studying a second language? Do you hope to get a job after graduation or go to graduate school? Are you interested in what's happening around the world? Are you a transfer student seeking that "competitive edge?"

If you answered YES! to any of these questions, then you will want to learn about the USF Global Citizens Project and the opportunities available to students.

The Global Citizens Project is a university-wide initiative aimed at preparing you to succeed in today's interconnected world. But what is a global citizen and why should you want to be one? A global citizen can adapt and even thrive in all sorts of situations whether they involve diverse people, places, events, challenges, or opportunities. So being a global citizen means that you are flexible, knowledgeable about the world, collaborative, and with strong leadership skills. Employers and graduate schools seek these qualities in their candidates. The Global Citizens Project will help you develop these qualities.

PARTICIPATE

Being a global citizen can mean many things, but at the heart of it all is being able to engage meaningfully and effectively with diverse people, places, events, challenges, and opportunities.

For the purposes of the Global Citizens Project, USF has identified three primary qualities possessed by a global citizen:

- Global Awareness:

EXPLORE your role in the world. Prepare to change your world!

- Global Responsibility:

CONNECT with diverse people, places, and issues. Live beyond your borders!

- Global Participation:

PARTICIPATE to make a difference locally and globally. Do something that matters!

PCGS PEACE CORPS COVERDELL FELLOW

Ashlee Painter is a Peace Corps Coverdell Fellowship Recipient and a Graduate Assistant at the University of South Florida's Patel College of Global Sustainability. Painter holds a B.S. in Biology from Clemson University, M.A.S. in Marine Biology from James Cook University and is currently pursuing her second Master's degree in Coastal Sustainability at PCGS.

Painter's passion for both land and sea has led her to numerous corners of the world including Australia, West Africa, and Hawaii. As an undergraduate she studied abroad in New South Wales, Australia. During this time, Ashlee decided to continue her education. She earned a Masters of Applied Science in Marine Biology at James Cook University in Queensland, Australia. After being accepted into the Peace Corps in 2003, Painter spent the next two years in Cameroon, West Africa. In Cameroon, she used sustainability practices such as agroforestry to help local farmers stabilize their soil by growing trees, ensuring the land can be reused over time. In Hawaii, Painter worked on a farm where she applied her farming teachings to further research with Pioneer Hi-Bred.

Painter donates her time to the Florida Aquarium where she is a husbandry intern and helps the staff care for the animals. She also volunteers at the FWC's Suncoast Youth Conservation Center helping to expand youth outdoor recreation and conservation education programming. Continuing her education at USF's Patel College of Global Sustainability, Painter hopes to combine her two degrees of Marine Biology and Coastal Sustainability to help small communities implement sustainable practices.

ATTEND

Semester Study

Fall and spring full semester programs allow students to truly integrate into their host culture and attend institutes, colleges, and universities overseas with other foreign and local students. Living options and program prices range from program to program as does the field of study available. In most cases, you may take courses from a range of majors. A semester abroad is an enriching experience allowing you to acculturate to your host country. It allows you the opportunity to get to know the people and culture and experience your discipline from a different perspective--one that can not only compliment your own understanding, but one you can bring back with you and use to supplement your USF education.

Summer Programs

USF summer programs range in length from 2 to 10 weeks during the May to August period. Program dates vary, but each are designed to maximize exposure to host cultures while providing an intensive academic study. In most cases, some lectures will be conducted on campus before and after the trip, as well as exams and projects with the faculty director on-site in their host country. In addition to USF faculty led programs, Education Abroad is partnered with many international partner institutes and universities that host our students for focused study. There is also the potential for experiential learning through service, teaching, and internships.

Short-Term Programs

The Education Abroad Office has arranged spring break and intercession short programs designed for students with limited travel time. These programs are highly intensive in nature and rely on a good deal of course work to be completed on campus prior to departure. This work is then brought to life through on-site research and experiences.
